Wounded Pride and Censorship

IF THERE is anything to the psychologists' claim that the touchy, easily-offended person is really suffering from a deep sense of his own inferiority, then the dictator-nations must be afflicted with the most complete inferiority complexes ever seen.

The Italian government is providing the most recent illustration.

This time it is marching to war against two American moving pictures—"Marie Antoinette," recently produced, and "Farewell to Arms," filmed some years ago and currently having a revival.

The first one, it seems, offended because it displays "all the ferocious bloodiness, malice, and barbarian qualities of the people of the French revolution, from which after 104 years the People's Front has been born."

And the second is "an insult to the Italian soldier, who has won three wars." A revival of the film will not be looked upon lightly by Rome, even if no Italian ever sees it; for, says Fascist Bigwig Robert Farinacci, "defamation, calumny and insult would remain even if the film were shown in the smallest Broadway house."

NOW it takes a pretty touchy people to get so stirred up by a couple of movies. There is, indeed, something rather ridiculous about a nation which insists that it is the reincarnation of Caesar's Rome being so mortally offended at the thought that someone, in some suburban movie house in America, may see a moving picture which shows the Italian army in the process of retreat. A nation which really felt that it was great, mighty, and all-powerful would hardly worry so much about so insignificant a slight.

Which indicates, perhaps, that the dictator-states—and they all seem to be just as touchy on these matters as Italy is—don't believe in their own boasts. They bruise too easily.

BUT there is another side to it which isn't quite so funny.
It is quite possible that this counter-offensive from the land of Fascism may have some effect on the kind of dramas American movie-goers may see in their own theaters.

Moving picture companies do a big export business; they can't always afford to get in wrong with a European government, for fear of reprisals. It has happened before that Hollywood has laid off of certain subjects, certain stories, and certain methods of treatment, in order to avoid the ill-will of one or another of the dictators.

And that is carrying things a bit too far. As long as the uniformed braggarts of Europe confine their war on freedom and truth to their own lands, we can't complain much.
But when they exert a censorship—and that is what it amounts to—over the channels of artistic expression in our own country, we have a right to object.

One Second

YOU may be a little tired by now of reading sermons on safety. Possibly you've got so that accident and traffic statistics don't give you much of a shock any more. Possibly they even bore you.

How about just one statistic today, though? This is an interesting one. You might even find it worth remembering on special occasions.

It's offered by two Yale University investigators who made a cross-country trip to determine the habits of drivers in passing other cars in the face of traffic approaching from the opposite direction.

Twenty per cent of the nation's motorists, the Yale men estimate, habitually allow themselves less than one second in which to pass one car without being struck by an approaching car.

Assume that you are not that one driver out of five. Still your chances of getting involved with that driver on the highway are one to five.

The odds in your favor aren't anywhere near big enough to justify putting much of your trust in the other man.

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Operation on James Roosevelt Revives Curiosity About Stomach Ulcers

(This is the first of three articles in which Dr. Fiskein discusses the subject of ulcers of the stomach and duodenum.)

Steadily the number of deaths from ulcer of the stomach and the duodenum has been rising in recent years, particularly the mortality among men. The mortality among women has decreased.
Nobody knows why.

A gastric ulcer affects the stomach;
duodenal ulcers affect that portion of the intestine which follows immediately after the stomach. It is called the duodenum because the ancient Greeks said it was "12 fingers long."

Just why human beings have gastric ulcer and why more and more men are getting ulcers now has not been determined. True, the stomach and intestines are subjected to a good deal of wear and tear in the digestion of foods;
but dogs fill their stomachs with bone and other unchewed and indigestible material and apparently do not suffer with ulcers of the stomach.

The human being has infections of various sorts, particularly with the germs called streptococci, yet some people get ulcers and others do not.
Many people with chronic infections of the nose and throat fail to develop ulcers of the stomach, whereas others who apparently have not had such infections will develop ulcers. Significantly, people who do a great deal of hard work and worry have ulcers more often than do those who do not.

The secretion of the stomach is acid.
Sometimes the acid is stronger in some people than in others, yet this does not seem to be the cause of all ulcers of the stomach.

Ulcers of the stomach seldom occur in infants and young children. This, of course, recalls the fact that ulcers
do occur in those who worry much, work too hard, and are constantly under a nervous strain.

Recently newspapers have focused attention on ulcers of the stomach because Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, and James Roosevelt, son of the president, have had operations for ulcers performed at the Mayo Clinic.

The death rate from ulcers of the stomach moved up from 3.69 in 1900 to 6.77 in 1932. However, the death rates at some ages are much higher. For example, the rate varies from 15 to 16 per 100,000 in men between the ages of 45 and 65.

Among the theories as to the causes of ulcers of the stomach and the duodenum are those involving the blood supply, mechanical factors, hereidity and constipation, infection, and nervous conditions. It is, of course, quite conceivable that several of these causes may be concerned in any individual case.

Methods of treatment are both medical and surgical. The decision as to what form of treatment is to be used varies with the individual case. In the case of James Roosevelt, it was decided to do surgery.

The surgeon, it is reported, removed the ulcer and then did an operation whereby the food will pass directly from the stomach to the intestine beyond the duodenum. This type of short-circuit operation, called gastroenterostomy, has been established as useful in preventing the formation of further ulcers.

Women got a little tired of hearing that they were not keeping up with their husbands, so they put on their hats and went out to learn. Soon they were not only keeping up with the men, but in many cases doing all the supporting.
Let it go. You know without my mentioning it, that almost any woman with an extra hour or two a day on her hands, can read and learn and absorb enough to keep step with her husband.

What many do not know, however, is that they must keep step with their children.

Perhaps I should not make it so arbitrary. There is no "must" about it, after all. But you will be happier some day, and even now, if you freshen up on what you have and add still more to your mental store.

Here's One Youngster Too Eager for School

DENVER.—(AP)—Roll call at Wyatt school on the opening day of the fall season showed one extra pupil in the room.

He was a four-year-old and he wouldn't volunteer any information other than the fact that school was starting and he was there.

An explanation from the teacher that he was too young for school brought only tears. Finally police were called to take him home.

Unable to give name or address he was taken to the matron's quarters.
He stayed until a newspaper account of his plight, with his picture, brought his parents to the rescue.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

South's Story Is Told Again

The South, the Civil War and reconstruction have proven fertile fields for the novelist these days. But there is still room for a very good story of this period within a book of 300 or 400 pages at this time.

This is likely to be your felling after you've gone through the 712 pages of Laura Krey's latest contribution to the list, "And Tell of Time" (Houghton, Mifflin; $2.75). Mrs. Krey has written a distinguished novel, but it seems to this reviewer that she might well have cut it in half and still have preserved her narrative.

It would be futile to attempt here,
for instance, to sketch the plot, laid against the whole era of American history from the Civil War to the early 1890's, from Virginia to the Brazos country of Texas. The story winds chiefly around Gavin Darcy and his wife, Lucina, but it harks back to Ga-vin's father and it sweeps across the years into the third generation.

There is no dearth of drama, what with the clash of the whites and the blacks after the new freedom, the night rides of the Ku Klux Klansmen, carpetbag politics and hanging parties.
But Mrs. Krey has been so careful to bulwark her story with a thorough exposition of the southern viewpoint that before you have finished you have the feeling that she has said a great many things many more times than she really needed to.

Mrs. Krey was born in the south herself, now lives in St. Paul, where her husband is professor of medieval history at the University of Minnesota. — P.G.F.

at stations and schools and collect again, meals, and mending, and teethstraightening and everybody's business to look after but your own. A family can come down like a house of Assyrians, and you are lucky if you've time to get a wave or take the hour's rest every afternoon ordered by the doctor.

But I look at it this way. A little bit added to what you've got just makes a little bit more. And there is no real reason why you aren't entitled to something you want to do, if everyone else in the family is doing what he wants to do.

There is the library. Maybe you do find time for popular fiction. That's fine. Everyone likes to be in the know, and to say she has read the latest novel. But hark! out of every four books, you may not make one a study book. Take any subject you wish, it really doesn't matter, as there are so many interesting ones.

Read the papers and magazines for news. Keep in mind names that will register in history. Learn to fix people in their places. Learn to watch the theater is doing. Read the news and not for thrill. Not entirely, that is.
You like music but have not had time to keep it up, perhaps. Why not begin? Why not begin anyway? There is no age limit for beginners in anything any more.

I do not believe in generalizing too much. If you are in earnest about keeping the cobwebs out of your mind, then I suggest taking one subject at a time as a "major" interest. To that give your best time and attention.
Then after a while change it. Squeeze another subject of its juice.

I know you won't be sorry. Your family will regard you with new respect. And the future, so dim and far away now, will be richer for all you have learned.

It was late that afternoon when she was finishing up her work that he came into her office.

"You're here late," she said,
looking up from behind the spicy scented blossoms. "I thought you'd gone ages ago."

"I had, but I came back," he told her. "I thought you'd still be here. I wondered if you wouldn't like to stay down town for dinner. I have to work tonight and I'd be glad if you would be a Girl Scout and have dinner with me."

The expression in his eyes made her heart flutter. "I saw how he looked at you in court," Larry had said to her. Now Tom's eyes told her more of his feelings toward her than all the little gestures of the past weeks. She bent forward, hiding her face in the cool crimson of the flowers, trying to think.

"You can help—you can help."
Sweeney would do it for you—give me a break. Get him to cooperate—"Larry's words came back with an incessant repetition.

And Tom was here now waiting for her to answer. Caring for her, wanting her company at dinner.
Honest, sincere, striving to make his record before the election.

"We can have a real meal for a change," Tom was saying. "No sandwiches and milk like lunch time. I'll have to work later, but if you feel you can give me a few hours—"

She looked up into his kind brown eyes, at the unruly lock of brown hair falling over his forehead.

"I'd love to go, Tom. I'll be ready in no time at all."

When It Comes to Newspapers, Movies Still Prefer Reelism to Realism

HOLLYWOOD.—All over the lot:
A favorite pastime of newspaper correspondents is standing around criticizing motion picture sets which are supposed to represent newspaper offices.

Almost invariably there is an over-abundance of activity and shouting, and too many copy boys the sprinting around, and the walls of the editorial rooms are plastered with hand-lettered maxims such as "Keep It Short" and
"Check Every Name."

No exception to these movie traditions is Warners' "Unfit to Print," in which Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell are playing their usual roles in a usual story. But this set contains the most glaring error I've ever noticed: a sign that cautions: "Be Sure Your Right."
Not "you're," but "your"—the misapplied possessive would send shud-ders around any newspaper copy desk.
If the studio wants to wriggle out of it,
the claim could be made that the error was committed deliberately to provide a question for sharp-eyed fans in the $250,000 Movie Quiz contest.

Profitable Mad-On After Bob Hope and Bing Crosby go on the air in their respective shows, each will have the other as a guest on one program, and then they'll begin an air feud similar to the Jack Benny-Fred Allen and Winchell-Bernie quarrels. This is what is known as healthy competition.

The men are evenly matched and are expected to plug it out with left-hand compliments and looping innu-endoes. All right, fellows, I want you to shake hands, go to your corners and come out fighting. And no bitin' in the clinches, either.

Lake, Men, A Light!
For a scene in "The Girl From Brooklyn," Key Luke carries a lantern and quips Alice Faye and Warner Baxter down a stair and through a dark cellar. But a kerosene lantern doesn't seem to lend any illumination at all, and neither does an electric one that is substituted.

The director calls for a really bright lantern. For that, they thread an electric cord up Luke's right pantleg, under his coat, down his right sleeve, to a 100-watt bulb inside the lantern.

Moving just out of camera range, a workman pulls the wire along in front of the Chinese actor so that it won't show in the film.

Take My Ducking, Please
Now they're providing stand-ins for stand-ins.

In "Submarine Patrol" Richard

Greene's stand-in was Stewart W.
a tall, muscular youngster who turned out to be just what Director John Ford wanted as a member of a sub-chi-crew. It turned out to be a tall role. For two days the sailors were battered about by tons of water dipped on them and poured at them by chutes. East took such a beating, so Ford hired a stand-in for him, so he could rest while the set was be-re-rigged.

Now You See It . . .
Most studios try to hide the fact that trick shots and special effects are in their pictures, but Hal Roach bragging that some 80 intricate illustrations must be used in "Topper Takes a Trip."
These will all have to do with C stance Bennett and the dog, Asta (co-ed "Atlas" in the picture), who quently appear and disappear.
Asta is lazy and seldom material himself completely, so usually y see just a front or hind half of a and sometimes only a tail.

Cary Grant, who played in "I per," will appear in "Topper Takes Trip," but won't work in it. He is up by other commitments for the r eight months, so he has sold per-sion to the studio to use some section from "Topper," with new dialog, deleting that he has graduated t higher plane. Miss Bennett, the m is content to stick around the set and make life interesting or Rei

Kissfulusion
Tom Kennedy, the comedy-her got excited the other day when learned that in the next scene he his face covered with lipstick printhe idea being that he had just k kissed repeatedly by Glenda Fa

Kennedy went out and tidied up

Revival Is Held Over Third Week

Evangelist Collins Attracts Crowds to Local Tabernacle

The Collins revival at the Gospel Tabernacle has been announced to go another week, due to the unusual interest and the general demand for the evangelist to stay over a third week.

A crowd filled the Tabernacle Sunday night to capacity and heard the Rev. Mr. Collins speak on the subject, "Mortgaging the Soul." At the close of his sermon a large number accepted the invitation to become converted and knelt at the old fashioned altar for prayer.

The evangelist will speak Monday night on the subject, "The Anti-Christ and the Mark of the Beast," a message on prophecy which will be of great interest to all who can attend.

Special music and singing will feature the services each night of the third week of the revival.

Civilians Told

prepared to meet again at 10 a. m. The prime ministers and foreign ministers of the two western European democracies faced four developments in a war-jittery Europe:

1. An unofficial though authoritative report that Czechoslovakia had rejected Hitler's final terms for handing over the Sudetenland.

2. Authoritative disclosure that Hitler had attached a map to his terms sent to Czechoslovakia, marking areas he demanded be ceded to Germany. The source disclosing this map said the new German frontier would come within 20 miles of Prague, the Czechoslovak capital.

3. Unanimous agreement by the French cabinet that Hitler's memorandum was "unacceptable" without guarantees for security of the revised frontiers.

4. A threat by premier Mussolini of Italy that he too would take military measures if other nations continue mobilizing their armies and war fleets.

France Aroused
PARIS, France.—(P)—The French cabinet agreed unanimously over the week-end that Reichsfuehrer Hitler's memorandum to Czechoslovakia demanding quick occupation of Sudetenland by Germany without guarantees was "unacceptable."

The cabinet's decision gave Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet their ministers' full support as they flew late Sunday to London to confer with British ministers on the crisis.

The agreement was that Germany must give a pledge to respect the proposed new Czechoslovak state before France would accept annexation of Sudetenland by Germany.

To Maintain Three Points
Members of Daladier's ministry who were at the meeting said the French government had decided to maintain three essential points of the first French-British peace plan, which was offered to Hitler with Czechoslovakia's consent.

These points were:
1. Cession to Germany of sections of Sudetenland where Sudeten Germans hold a strong majority.

2. Disposition of areas with mixed populations by an international commission.

3. Guarantees by Britain, France, Germany and other neighboring powers of the new frontiers of Czechoslovakia.

Guarantees Demanded
The counter-proposals offered British Prime Minister Chamberlain by Hitler Friday at Godesburg, Germany, were considered unacceptable by the French ministers largely because they lacked Germany's guarantees, it was stated.

Cabinet members said Minister of Justice Paul Reynaud, Navy Minister Cesar Campinchi and Anatole de Monzie, minister of public works, members of a "stop Hitler" bloc in the ministry—voiced strong objections to the fuhrer's latest demands and the rest of the cabinet concurred unanimously.

Germans Advance
BERLIN, Germany.—(P)—German troops pressed toward the Czechoslovak frontier all day Sunday as preparedness in case Czechoslovakia turns down Adolf Hitler's "final" demands for a slice of the republic's territory by October 1.

As war atmosphere thickened in Germany, it was believed that Hitler might have chosen to announce the terms of his virtual ultimatum to Czechoslovakia when he makes a scheduled speech at a Nazi mass meeting in Berlin's Sportpalast Monday night.

On every side the question was what would be Czechoslovakia's answer to the memorandum, outlining his demands, which Hitler handed Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain at Godesburg Friday for forwarding to Prague.

A great feeling of uneasiness was evidenced by the German public and foreigners living in Germany. British residents continued a steady exodus.

From Rohrbach, Upper Austria, came news that troops were pouring through German Austria toward the Czechoslovak frontier. Halls, schools and other buildings in villages across the Czechoslovakia's southwest border were requisitioned by the German army. Rohrbach became headquarters for the Quartermaster's Department and an Intelligence Division.

Would Cut Up Czechs
LONDON, Eng.—(P)—There are only two official copies of the map delineating the new frontiers Adolf Hitler demands be cut into Czechoslovakia. One is in Berlin. The other copy is in Prague, flown there by the

Terms of Hitler's Demand on Czechs

LONDON.—(P)—The text of the "final" memorandum of Chancellor Hitler of Germany given Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britain Friday for presentation to Czechoslovakia, as disclosed by authoritative sources in London, follows:

Reports increasing in number from hour to hour regarding incidents in Sudetenland show that the situation has become completely intolerable for the Sudeten German people and in consequence dangerous to the peace of Europe.

It is therefore essential that separation of the Sudetenland agreed to by Czechoslovakia should be effected without any further delay.

On he attached map the Sudeten German area which is to be ceded is shaded in red. Areas in which a plebiscite also is to be held, over and above the areas to be occupied, are drawn in and shaded green.

Final delimitation of the frontier must correspond to the wishes of those concerned. In order to determine these wishes a certain period is necessary for the preparation of a plebiscite during which disturbances must in all circumstances be prevented.

A situation of parity must be created. The area designated on the attached map as German area is to be occupied by German troops without taking into account whether in this area there lie large German language islands in which in a plebiscite a majority will without doubt give expression to its German national feeling.

With a view to bringing about an immediate and final solution of the Sudeten German problem the following proposals are submitted by the German government:

1. Withdrawal of the whole Czech armed forces, police, gendarmerie, customs officials and frontier guards from the area to be evacuated as designated on the attached map, this area to be handed over to Germany on October 1.

2. Evacuated territory is to be handed over in its present condition (see further details in appendix). German government agrees that plenipotentiary representatives of the Czech government and of the Czech army should be attached to headquarters of the German military forces to deal with details of modalities (methods of making effective) of the evacuation.

3. The Czech government to discharge at once all Sudeten Germans serving in the military forces or police anywhere in Czech state territory and permit them to return home.

4. The Czech government to liberate all political prisoners of the German race.

5. The German government agrees to permit a plebiscite to take place in those areas—to be more definitely defined—before November 25 at the latest. The plebiscite itself will be carried out under control of an international commission. All persons who reside in the areas in question on October 28, 1938, or who were born in the areas prior to this date, will be eligible to vote. A simple majority of all eligible male and female voters will determine the desire of the population to belong either to the German Reich or the Czech state. During the plebiscite both parties will withdraw their military forces out of the area to be defined more precisely. The date and duration will be settled mutually by the German and Czech governments.

Appendix: The evacuated Sudeten German area is to be handed over without destroying or rendering unusable in any way the military, economic or traffic establishments (plants). These include ground organizations of air service and all wireless stations.

All economic and traffic materials, especially rolling stock of the railway system, in the designated areas are to be handed over undamaged. The same applies to all utility services (gas works, power stations, etcetera).

Finally, no foodstuffs, goods, cattle, raw materials et cetera, are to be moved.

British military attaché from Berlin.
This is a verbal picture of his map as disclosed by an authoritative Czech source in London.

Hitler demands outright cession of a fringe of Czechoslovak territory all along the German frontier except for two small gaps. His demands include both the Sudeten mountains on the north and the Bohemian range on the southwest which since ancient times have proved natural barriers for defense of this land in the heart of Europe.

Starting from Bratislava, the southern Czechoslovak city near where the German, Hungarian and Czechoslovak frontier meet, Hitler's new frontier for Germany runs parallel to the present frontier as far west as Hohenbrunn. The border territory averages about 30 miles in width—sometimes more, sometimes less. Then comes a 10-mile gap Hitler does not ask for. The line starts anew, running northwest for 105 miles to Domazlice, a strip approximately 25 miles wide.

Here it switches roughly northeast for 105 miles to Dub, south of Liberec. It zigzags, passing within five miles of Pilsen, famed home of lager beer and an important strategic city. Too, it comes within 20 miles of Prague, Czechoslovakia's capital. In some places, notably the farthest western section, it would cut into Czechoslovakia as much as 65 miles.

Employment Shows

64 per cent went of men; 87 per cent to white persons; and 42 per cent to applicants under 25 years of age.

The Employment Service has been particularly successful the last few months in placing well qualified stenographers in gainful employment, resulting in a shortage in most offices of this type of applicant. The most acute general shortage of workers, however, is in domestic and personal service occupations. As would be expected, this shortage is more serious in the larger cities like Little Rock, Fort Smith, El Successful campaigns for World's Fair funds were conducted in El Dorado and Camden last week, and Chairman C. E. Palmer was highly encouraged by the receipt of $10,000 in contributions from oil interests, besides a $1,000 subscription from the Southern Kraft Corporation. These large subscriptions are split up so each county in which the corporation maintains a business receives credit for a portion of its quota.

Governor Bailey has been requested by Chairman Palmer that a co-chairman for the Arkansas Centennial Commission be named so that he can devote a portion of his time to his six daily newspapers, and such an appointment is expected this week. Chairman Palmer has been devoting three or four days weekly to directing the financial campaign, and has asked that an arrangement be made that will require his presence in Little Rock only one day each week.

STORIES IN STAMPS

The First "Dark Horse" in American Politics

TORN by dissension and the wracking policies of President John Tyler, the Whigs faced certain defeat in the stormy campaign of 1844. So the Democrats assembled in frenzied convention in Baltimore to pick a leader for return to power.

Van Buren, defeated four years earlier, demanded renomination, but Cass of Michigan, Johnson of Kentucky, Calhoun and James Buchanan pooled their strength and held Van Buren short of the required two-third's vote for many weary ballots. The convention appeared hopelessly deadlocked.

Then someone mentioned James K. Polk, former Speaker of the House under Jackson. Polk had just returned to the public scene when he earnestly advocated the annexation of Texas. He even prophesied that if the United States did not take Texas, England might. The convention was struck by this chance for compromise, unanimously nominated Polk. He thus became the first "dark horse" candidate in an American political convention.

He was elected, defeating Henry Clay, the Whig candidate. Texas, Oregon, and California became American possessions during his term, but only after bloody conquest during which Polk himself was labeled "Napoleon." After serving one term, he retired to Nashville in 1849 and died almost at once of cholera. He is shown here on a stamp of the new U. S. regular series, enlarged. ## Yanks Roll Their Own --- to World Championships

Frank Crosetti

Joe DiMaggio

Lou Gehrig

Lefty Gomez

First of four articles on the world series.

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

The Yankees are the first 100 per cent home-grown organization in the history of major league baseball.

Col. Jacob Ruppert a year ago started the world series against the Giants with a club no member of which ever played with any other big league outfit. The only change this trip is Joe Gordon at second base, and the world champions signed him while he was representing Jefferson High School at Portland, Ore.

Rogers Hornsby doubts that the Yankees ever will be beaten, and I will be as surprised as the Rajah when they are.

The reason is that they have the organization, the money, and the jump bin of Frank Crosetti and Gordon, and the remarkable center fielder, Joe DiMaggio. Pearson alone performed for another major league club.

Gomez, Crosetti, and DiMaggio were purchased from the San Francisco school ... conducted by Prof. Charles Seals. A graduate of that baseball school ... has yet to fail to make good, and the fascinating city at the Golden Gate has sent up a long line of athletes.

William B. Dickey, the finest all-around catcher in the league and one of the grandest hitters, was brought up from Little Rock in 1928.

Blytheville and North Little Rock Game to Feature Conference Tilts

Pine Bluff Invades Fort Smith; Hot Springs and Jonesboro to Meet; Roberts to Clash With Strong Smackover Team

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Ten of the 15 members of the Arkansas high school football conference will engage in intra-circuit warfare this week.

Col. Jacob Ruppert a year ago started the world series against the Giants with a club no member of which ever played with any other big league out-

Russellville, 57-0 victims of the Wildcats Friday, will meet the Forrest City Thoroughbreds at Russellville in a game that should be a tossup.

The Thoroughbreds have yet to win a game this year.

Fort Smith will meet a surprisingly strong Benton team and Hot Springs will take on Jonesboro at the spa in the other intra-conference games.

It will be the first competition in the circuit for Fordyce, Hot Springs and Jonesboro. Benton won over Forrest City 16-0 last week.

The other conference teams will perform as follows:

Little Rock at Shreveport, La. Camden at Monroe, La. Clarksville at Paris, Hope at Smackover, El Dorado, open date.

Atlanta Beaten by Vols, 18 to 9

Beaumont to Represent the Texas League in the Playoff Series

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Tom Sunkel's number was up Sunday and the Nashville Vols hopped on him in the first inning for four hits and five runs as a starter in their 18 to 9 victory over Atlanta in the fourth game of the Shaugnessy playoff final series.

Sunkel, victor over the Vols five times previously this season, failed to last the inning out, but he received no worse treatment than three other Cracker hurlers, none of whom was able to stem the tide of 21 base hits.

Before Sunday's game Atlanta had won three straight decisions and needed only one more to qualify as the representative of the Southern Association in the Dixie Series against the Texas League playoff winner.

Mailho and Lipscomb hit homers for the Crackers and Water and Chapman for the Vols.

Beaumont Winner
BEAUMONT, Tex.—(AP)—The Beaumont Exporters became Texas League champions Sunday afternoon by defeating San Antonio 3 to 2 in the eighth and deciding game of the final playoff round. Manager Al Vincent's base running and the relief hurling of Paul "Dizzy" Trout featured the victory.

Gets Coaching Post
SOUTH BEND—Tommy Wukovits, star basketball guard for the last three years at Notre Dame, has been named coach of the Irish Freshman squad.

Thomsen Pleased With Porker Team

Satisfied With Sophomores in Saturday's 27-7 Triumph

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Coach Fred C. Thomsen said Sunday that Arkansas's 1938 football team had potential power but that it might be a week or a month before the Razorbacks hit their peak.

One of the most pleasing points to him in Saturday's 27-to-7 triumph over Oklahoma A. & M. was the sophomores' belated comeback to alone for first-half blunders.

"All of the players, especially sophomores, learned a lot against A. & M.," Thomsen asserted, "and they'll play steeper against Texas Christian this week."

Guard Wilfred Thorpe, a junior, played probably his best varsity game and made many tackles.

Line Coach Glen Rose praised the linebacking of Center Lloyd Woodell and Fullback Ray Cole. The latter was hurt on the first play of the game but returned for most of the second half.

Halfback Kay Eakin's fine passing was more remarkable, due to the fact that last year he starred more as a pass receiver and on pass defense, intercepting about a dozen enemy tosses.

Porkers Show Power
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—The University of Arkansas recovered from first half litters to score four touchdowns in the final half Saturday and defeat Oklahoma A. & M. 27 to 7 before approximately 5,000 fans. It was the first game played in Arkansas' new $200,000 stadium.

The Razorbacks, "mossing team in the nation" last year, proved a complete failure in this department during the first half as the Aggies counted their only marker. After intermission it was a different story with Arkansas assuming charge with both ground and aerial attacks.

Veteran Kay Eakin punted, passed and ran with the ball for the greater part of Arkansas ground gaining. The Porkers threw 35 aerials, completing 12 for 150 yards.

Arkansas started passing early in the first quarter. Halfback Joe Scalet, one of the Razorbacks' four starting sophomores, missed two perfect passes from Eakin in Cowboys' territory.

Umpire Was Brave

PITTSBURGH—Honus Wagner, Pirate coach, says he was at a colored ball game near Pittsburgh one day, when the umpire made one of the strangest decisions he ever saw on the diamond. The bases were loaded and the count 3-2 on the batter when the official called the next pitch:

"Ball four, but you're out—there ain't no place for you to go."

Should Be Plenty

SHREVEPORT, La.—When admiring fans gave a baby shower for infielder Sully Parker they included two carriages and 3755 diapers.

Prothro to Pilot Big League Club

Rumors Say He May Be Manager of Browns or Brooklyn

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Dr. James Thompson (Doc) Prothro, whose resignation as manager of the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association was announced Sunday, will manage a major league baseball club in 1939, he said Sunday night.

Prothro, who lives in Memphis, refused to divulge the name of the team.

"The announcement of course will have to come from the club that signed me. Naturally they asked me not to say and of course I won't."

The veteran pilot, who has held a manager's job in the Southern Association for nine years, said he had been offered the big league post two years ago but had turned it down "because I liked the South."

"I'm going to give it a whirl now and see if I can do any good. They're going to give me time to build up something."

Street Is Released
ST. LOUIS.—(AP)—Gabby Street was notified Sunday that he will not be signed to manage the St. Louis Browns next season.

The news came with unexpected suddenness shortly after the Browns' double victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The announcement was issued by President Donald Barnes of the American League club, who said it was a reply to Gabby's request to learn his status for next year.

"I advised him the club did not expect to renew his contract for 1939," Barnes stated.

Resigns at Little Rock
LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—James Thompson (Doc) Prothro announced Saturday night his resignation as manager of the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association.

He indicated the possibility of a major league connection without mentioning the club with which he was negotiating. The Arkansas Gazette reported he might sign with either the Boston Red Sox, Brooklyn, St. Louis Cardinals or Detroit.

Prothro made public his resignation in a letter from New York City. He has been in the East the past two weeks.

Giants and Reds Are Eliminated

Pirates and Chicago Cubs to Fight it Out for Pennant

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The hot National League pennant chase became a two-team race Sunday with final elimination of the New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds, leaving only the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs to fight it out through the last seven days.

New York's double defeat in Boston and Cincinnati's loss to league-leading Pittsburgh made it mathematically impossible for either club to catch the Pirates through the last week of the season.

Company to Hunt Sunken Treasures

JOHANNESBURG.—(AP)—A company has been formed to attempt the salvage of the ship "Grosvenor," which was wrecked near Port St. John in 1782.

It is believed a cargo including gold and silver bars and precious stones valued at $25,000,000.

The nose of the eruption of the volcano Kralatua, in 1883, traveled around the world three times; and at 3000 miles away it sounded like a roar of distant guns.

Alfred Kenney exhibits an 864-pound bluefin tuna, which he caught with rod and reel off Shelburne, Nova Scotia. Affidavits making the catch an official world record have been received in New York for registry at the American Museum of Natural History. Kenney battled the monster 4 1/2 hours. The previous world record was an 851-pound catch by L. Mitchell Henry, an Englishman, off Whitby, England.

BIRTH OF A SONG

From ASCAP Files
By Joseph R. Fliesler and Paul Carruth

"ALEXANDER'S RAGTIME BAND" was written twenty-seven years ago as an instrumental number, and failed. The young composer tried his hand at lyrics, and turned the song into a two million copy success.

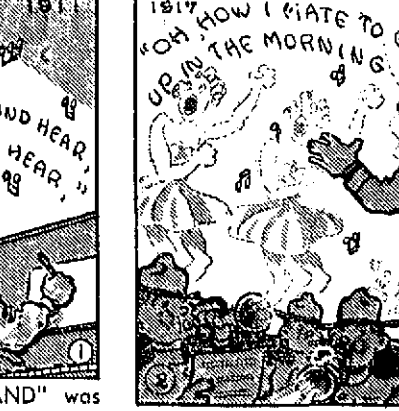

The young singing waiter, turned composer, created success after success, until in 1917 he established his own publishing firm. Then came the war.

Hollywood beckoned and the greatest popular songwriter of them all was among the first to be called. But he resisted until he could write the sort of musical picture he wanted for the movies.

At a moment when the producers ran out of ideas, Berlin put forth the suggestion that resulted in the production of the record breaking film which, beginning with "Alexander's Ragtime Band," becomes a cavalcade of Berlin melodies.

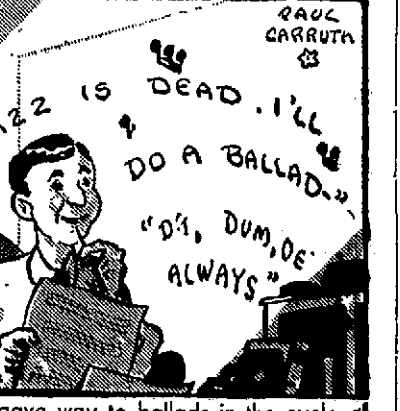

Irving Berlin's membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers dates from its beginning in 1914. Ascap, which licenses the use to commercial establishments of the works of its members, values highly Berlin's contributions to its repertoire.

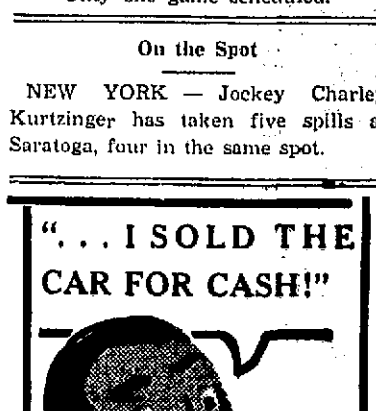

Jazz gave way to ballads in the cycle of songs, and radio began to demand more and more new music. The sale of pianos and phonographs decreased and with them the sales of sheet music and records decreased.

How to Move a House Across a River

Not a houseboat but a 41-ton, all-steel, eight-room residence for land use is the house shown here crossing the Illinois river at Peoria, Ill. Towed by a power launch the home was successfully moved from the side of the river on which it was built to a site opposite.

In New York

NEW YORK—Every trade has its own argot—and the business of making phonograph records is no exception. Artie Shaw, one of the more prolific recorders, has become fluent in the jargon and helps us out with these: "Raiding the pinwheels" is the term applied to the search for musicians who are wanted for a recording date. Musicians like to play the pin wheel games around the city and they usually can be found in these archades. A novelty tune that might develop into a best-seller record is called a hit. "Yes, We Have No Bananas." The scene of a recording is called the "padded cell" because it is so protected from all interfering noises.

Ave Among the Great
Familiar diners at the Broadway taverns are athletes of the diamond, such as Dick Bartell and Mel Ott of the Giants. Joe Di Maggio of the Yankees. Hank Greenberg of the Tigers, and the volatile "Gaby" Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs.

And it is interesting to note the attitude of highly paid, internationally worshipped stage and screen idols toward these ball players. Show folk vie with and jostle against each other for a smile and a handshake from the baseball greats. And if, God save the mark, a Di Maggio invites a performer to sit over a sandwich or cup of coffee with seventh heaven of happiness.

Baseball players, incidentally, are not the only ones who possess this inexplicable charm. Barney Ross and Jack Dempsey, the prize ring illuminati, Don Budge and Gene Mako, champ of the tennis courts, Lou Little and Mal Stevens, renowned football coaches—all these celebrated athletes are catered to and held in awe by the top-notch names in the entertainment world.

Moving Business
Idlers on the Central Park benches have been wasting their time profitably lately. Several seats have been diverging themselves with chess and checker boards; and they've become proficient at these slow-motion games, having all the time for practice. Well, along came more challengers than the loafers could handle on all the tournaments across the board. For a dime, any passing pedestrian who wishes to rest a while and test his skill, can sit down to a half hour's contest of wits.

There are no regular hours and shop doesn't close after dark, either. When we went by the other evening, a dozen players weighed their next moves under the hardly adequate illumination of the park lamps and a hazy moon.

An Oregon giant fir, when cut, showed 838 annual rings, 12 of them giving evidence of forest fires in the first 70 years.

Henry Ford set an unofficial world auto speed record in the early 1900's, driving one mile in 23 2-5 seconds on ice.

Behind the Scenes

WASHINGTON.—The Federal Trade Commission is acting in restraint of love's sweet dreams.

Marital agencies and books purporting to tell you how to lasso the lady or gent of your dreams have caused FTC to raise its eyebrows and move to tone down extravagant promises. A man in Grayslake, Ill., has agreed to stop advertising that "joining our club means the realization of your sweetest dream of love and home" and to stop guaranteeing happiness or wealth within three months. No more will impecunious elderly men thrill to his assurances that "I have a large number of every desirable ladies who have trusted me to find them suitable husbands. Some of them inform me their financial standings are as follows: A brunet, 30, with an income of $6000; business woman, age 29, worth $30,000."

Furthermore, the commission alleges, it's violation of the FTC act when a booklet called "How to Win a Husband" says:

"How much would you pay for the love of the man you want? Then don't sit back and let the other girl have him. Win him for yourself in spite of all obstacles. The simple, clear directions in this book tell you how."

What's in a Name?
New Englanders can't help noticing some of the aristocratic old Bostonian names, traditionally associated with conservatism, which appear among leading opponents of the American Medical Association in its fight against "socialized medicine."

For instance, Dr. Hugh Cabot, Harvard overseer and Mayo Clinic consulting surgeon, who jumped on the A. M. A. at the National Health Conference here. Dr. Channing Frothingham, president of the Massachusetts Medical Society, who says the A. M. A. makes "a terrible mistake by not following the trend of public opinion in medical and hospital insurance plans."

Dr. Charles-Edward Amory Winslow, professor of public health at Yale School of Medicine, witty and sarcastic in his defense of government health programs.

Swankiest of all those white marble buildings on Constitution Avenue is the Federal Reserve Building, not actually a government building because it is owned co-operatively by the Federal Reserve banks. This one even has a beauty parlor in the basement and its doors are closed from 12:15 to 1:15 p. m. each day to keep government workers and general public out of its attractive cafeteria.

Bankers often come to the beauty parlor to have their nails done and one of the manicurists says most of the bankers are quite modern now, in that they use liquid polish on their nails.

Foreign Service men in the State Department who served in Russia and became used to being followed wherever they went in Moscow read recently that Russia had angrily protested to Poland against police surveillance of its diplomats at Warsaw.

"Huh!" was all they said.

BARBS

Now that France has sworn her protective help so vehemently, the Czechs' conception of her sounds like a heart-balm suit: an alien nation of affection. John L. Lewis spoke in a bull ring the other day, and the first A. F. of L. man that says what he's thinking may go stand in the corner.

A tree has sprouted in a bar in an eastern community and the ignorant city folk don't know what kind of a tree it's going to be. Obviously the answer is: a heecery tree.

One 'Fraidy-Cat;
One Cat Is Calm
HONOLULU, T. H.—(AP)—To test the effect of heavy firing on observers, two cats were placed just under the muzzles of the army's giant 16-inch guns at Fort Weaver. Then the guns were fired.

Your Telephone Company is Mostly People serving you in Arkansas

It takes a lot of people . . . 1,400 in Arkansas . . . to see that more than half a million telephone calls each day flow swiftly to their destinations.

It takes operators, whose skilled fingers stand ready to flash your calls on their way; linemen, to keep the voice paths open for your words; experts to see that no trouble happens in the intricate telephone apparatus that serves you; engineers; accountants; men and girls in business offices.

To each one of these 1,400, Arkansas is "home." They work here; their children are in Arkansas schools. Last year their pay checks totaled more than one and a half million dollars, and they spent nearly all of this in Arkansas. They are an important part of your community.

The telephone company, like its people, is also part of Arkansas. It is here to meet your state's need for friendly, dependable telephone service. It serves its own interests best by giving good service at reasonable cost to you. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

DON'T LET YOUR NERVES GET TIRED, UPSET!

Irish Setter
Native of Ireland. Believed to be a cross of English setter, spaniel and pointer. Originally red and white in coloring. Today's standards call for solid mahogany red or rich golden chestnut. Essentially a gun dog. Bold, hardy, yet remarkably gentle nature. Noted for long life.

He's giving his nerves a rest...and so is she

THE DOG pictured above has a nervous system amazingly similar to yours, with this difference: It is the nature of the dog to rest when he needs rest. It is the nature of mankind to drive on...until nerves jerk and twitch...until you are cross and irritable...tired out without knowing it. No matter which of the common forms of tenseness you feel, try this experiment: Ease up and enjoy a Camel. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are so mild and comforting. Smokers find that "Let up—light up a Camel" puts more zest into life, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos soothe their nerves.

"Let up—light up a Camel"
puts more joy into living

Tetrell Jacobs, lion trainer, and "Tony" Concello, circus aerialist (right), both testify to the value of "Let up—light up a Camel." "Animals can spring into instant action—then relax," says Jacobs. "We are apt to get our nerves all wound up with our tense way of living—can't let go. I find that Camels soothe my nerves." "Tetrell's right," Miss Concello says. "When my nerves are tired, a Camel helps them to rest."

DID YOU KNOW:
—that one tablespoonful of tobacco seed will sow 100 square yards?
Right down to the day of harvest, Camel tobacco experts watch the development of the crop in each locality. The Camel cigarette buyers know where the mild, choice, aromatic tobacco is, and buy accordingly.
Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

Fred L. McDaniel, cowboy (right), says: "When I feel nervous I let up, and light up a soothing Camel. Camels are mild—I smoke 'em steadily. They are so comforting, and never tire my nerves."
